Not only could our tenth grade toppers start an initiative to save the planet by starting their careers as scientists, but we also emerged victorious with a batch of students who are so in tune with who they are. This is what optimism must feel like! We can't wait to live in a world where they're spearheading their own change.

They have left us dumbfounded with their consistency. Their efforts and dedication have shone through!

We wish them all the luck as they go forth and conquer the world!!
